To the public, but more especially to my patrons, I have to state that owing to protracted ill health (disease of lungs) and the great probability of not being able to resume my professional work for some time yet to come, I have placed my books July 14, 1877.

We have a new, large and well assorted stock of Job type and paper on hand, and are prepared to execute work with neatness.

It is poor economy to let your carriage go so long unpainted that the joints being exposed to the weather will injure it. Baker & Bro, will fix it all right and make it look like a new one.

Try it.

CLARKSVILLE, August 24, 1877. Our warehouse stocks begin to show the effect of the drain of the large sales we have had for the past six weeks, and our sales are now growing smaller. Our offerings this week were about 550 hhds. The market was moderately active, but begins to show some of that sluggishness which usually sets in towards the close of the season, buyers being indifferent to accumulate stocks, portions of which would necessarily be carried over into the next season and prevent the winding up of accounts at the close of the year We quote:

CORRECTED BY J. J. ORUSMAN. Trade continues quiet. A steady demand continues for Bacon and Lard and prices remain low without a prospect for an advance, as the stocks are large and the most cheap. Frames of irregular sizes active part of the season drawing to a close, made to order with neatness and Sugars are steady and in good demand at in all leading markets, and a further declin cheap as any eastern manufacturer. here may be expected.
